Subject: Update on 2012-13 Program Review for the UAPC

Copies: Members of the University Academic Planning Council

One of the functions of the UAPC is to oversee academic program review. This update is a basis for the annual discussion on program review at an upcoming UAPC meeting.

Information about program review at UW-Madison is posted at <http://apir.wisc.edu/programreview.htm>. The web page includes the UAPC policy on program review as adopted by the UAPC in 2010, and revised in 2012. Attachment A is a flow-chart that provides an overview of the program review process, which highlights the central role of the deans.

Program review is one way that deans and program faculty monitor program quality. The central requirements are that academic programs must be reviewed at least once every 10 years and that deans provide a written summary of the review outcome. These requirements are in keeping with UAPC policy, UW System Board of Regents policy, and federal Title IV financial aid regulations.

Annually we collect an update on the status of program review from the deans. A dean's designee provides updated information on which programs are scheduled for review and provides a summary report on each review that has been completed. That information is recorded in a database and summary reports are posted on the web site and provided to UW System Administration. Attachment B is the report provided in 2012-12 response to the UW System Administration (UWSA) request. The UWSA report includes a tabulation of program reviews that are active or completed followed by short summaries of completed reviews. It is used as a basis for a report by UWSA to the Board of Regents.

Also attached is a 36-page report that lists the program review status of all UW-Madison academic programs (Attachment C).

Based on 2012-13 program review activity, here are a few key observations:

- In 2012-13, 26 reviews covering 39 programs were completed. UW-Madison has about 440 degree/major programs and approximately 60 certificate programs, for a total of approximately 500 academic programs. Consequently, reviews of about 50 programs need to be completed each year to maintain the requirement that every program be reviewed once in 10 years. After several years of fewer than 50 completed reviews, a backlog of overdue program review is developing.

- Approximately 50 reviews are on-going from 2012-13 or prior years. Some of these ongoing reviews will probably conclude in 2013-14.
- An additional 48 reviews are scheduled to begin in 2013-14.
- The 2010 program review guidelines specify the requirement for the dean's summary memo. Although the guidelines are a useful reference, some dean's summary letters continue to be focused on departmental issues of research and program faculty and do not address issues of student learning. .
- Letters & Science streamlined their program review process in 2011-12 and several reviews were delayed while that process was developed. A large number of L&S reviews are scheduled or are in process; some L&S reviews that are due are not scheduled for a variety of reasons.
- The College of Engineering has developed a streamlined program review process, focusing more on programmatic issues and on cross-cutting reviews that combine the review of several academic programs. They expect to clear much of the backlog in the next year.
- The Nelson Institute has initiated a number of over-due reviews.
- Sometimes a review results in discontinuation. In 2012-13 several programs were discontinued, and included BS-Agricultural Education, MS in Family and Consumer Journalism, the Graduate Certificate in Air Resources Management, and the Capstone Certificate in Laboratory Quality Management,
- Each November we audit the trends in degrees awarded for degree/major and certificate programs that are low-enrollment. (Low-enrollment programs are defined in the policy as those with fewer than five awards in five years.) Such programs get an automatic request for a review from the provost's office. After more than a decade of attention, we have very few low-enrollment programs other than those that have a strong academic rationale for continuing.

I look forward to discussing this report with you and with the UAPC.

Flow Chart – Annual Program Review Cycle at UW-Madison

Academic Year 2012-13 Institutional Program Review Summary

Attachment B.

UW - MADISON

Program or Program Area	Outcome of Completed Reviews (Continuation / Conditional Continuation / Discontinuation)	One Paragraph Description for Completed Reviews (Indicate any areas in need of attention, as well as areas of unusual strength)
Institutional Program Reviews Ongoing/In Process at end of 11-12 (if review is not yet completed, please state when review will be completed.)
2011-12 reviews were reported in July 2012. Please refer to last year's report.
Reviews that were ongoing at the end of 2011-12 are reported in the appropriate category below as completed or ongoing.
Institutional Program Reviews Completed 12-13
Agricultural Education (BS)	Discontinued	The program had admissions suspended three years ago and a mandated review of suspended programs by the three-year mark resulted in a decision to discontinue the program.
Agroecology (MS)	Continued	First five-year review (formerly the Joint Review). Reported to System Admin in April 2013. The findings of the review were that the program was meeting its original goals. The program is filling a distinctive and sought-after niche, it has been diligent in evaluating the breadth and rigor of the curriculum, it has attracted a diverse group of high-quality students, and the students are showing strong evidence of success in the program and in securing positions after graduation.
Biology (BS in CALS, BA/BS in L&S)	Continued	The undergraduate Biology major has undergone tremendous growth in the past decade to become the largest major on campus, with more than 400 graduates each year for the past five years. With this expansion, the program had outgrown its home in the Center for Biology Education, the program's original home that planned for a total enrollment of about 300 students a year. The result of the review was to plan for a relocation of the major to homes in academic departments in the College of Agricultural and Life Sciences (Bacteriology) and the College of Letters and Science (Zoology). With a governance structure more closely tied to the departmental and school/college structure, we expect that the academic needs of students can be more readily addressed. With more than 1000 enrolled in the program each year advising is a primary need and the move allows for additional advisors and stronger ties of students to their degree granting college.
Family and Consumer Journalism (MS)	Discontinued	The program was low-enrollment and faculty with the primary interest in the program had retired. As a result of lack of student and faculty interest, the program was discontinued.
Horticulture (BS, MS, PhD)	Continued	The program review recognized the Department's strengths in traditional horticulture and the opportunities presented to either strengthen the classical horticultural focus, or evolve existing programs towards more of a plant science focus. The department was encouraged to put in place more structured oversight of the academic programs.

Business (PhD)	Continued	Students choose the PhD in Business at UW-Madison because of the strong research reputation of the School of Business faculty. Graduates are successful at finding positions at research universities, at universities with more emphasis on teaching, and in industry. Funding for graduate assistantships is primarily through TA positions; one desirable direction is to have more funding through research assistantships and fellowships. Measures of student achievement and program success include the extent to which candidates produce work that is publishable in respected academic journals, conference presentations, and employment at research universities or in academic or industry environments that allow them to be research-active.
Chemical Engineering, BS program	Continued	Enrollment in the BS Chemical Engineering program has increased by 50% since 2007 and ranks third nationally behind Stanford and MIT, despite challenges posed by surging enrollments. In the preliminary report of the 2012-13 ABET site visit the program received no weaknesses or concerns, which is taken as a strong endorsement.
Human Development and Family Studies (BS)	Continued	The program aims to prepare students for graduate education and careers in human services, education and public policy; approximately half of graduates go on to graduate school. The undergraduate curriculum has evolved to respond to national trends in the HDFS field, as well as to adapt to faculty availability and resources. The program has strengths in integration of science and application in the curriculum, and substantial opportunities for undergraduates to do research with faculty.
Counseling Psychology, PhD program; accreditation review	Continued	The PhD in Counseling Psychology was deemed to meet all of the standards of the American Psychological Association and was accredited until 2019. Reviewers noted scientist-practitioner model of training and commended the thought and care given to the graded sequential nature of the practicum experiences and selection of practicum sites. The students are well-qualified for graduate training. The faculty have appropriate credentials and experiences to provide excellent training.
Audiology, Doctor of	Continued	The accreditation review of the Doctor of Audiology was completed in March 2010. The next accreditation review will be in February 2015. The Doctor of Audiology program met all of the requirements for accreditation. Areas of partial compliance to address included development of a long-term strategic plan and a need to provide more information about the program to the public .
Communicative Sciences and Disorders, MS	Continued	The accreditation review of the MS-Communication Sciences and Disorders was completed in July 2012. The next accreditation visit will be in August 2020. This accreditation visit was for the speech-language pathology program offered under the MS-CSD. The review found the program to be in full compliance with all criteria for accreditation.
Portuguese, MA, PhD	Continued	The graduate program in Portuguese was reviewed in the context of the departmental review of Spanish and Portuguese. The graduate program, recognized nationally for the excellence of the faculty, is considered a low-enrollment program (fewer than five degrees in five years). Graduate student recruiting is a perennial challenge because other universities are able to offer more lucrative assistantships. Several enrolled students are making good progress to degree completion and the low-enrollment status is expected to reverse. The program will continue to focus on recruiting and strengthening the financial assistantship packages for new graduate students.
Spanish, MA, PhD	Continued	The Department of Spanish and Portuguese, which houses the graduate program in Spanish, has experienced dramatic growth in the past decade, including a 36% growth in graduate enrollment.

		The graduate program in Spanish has remained strong during this growth, and placed approximately 60 PhD graduates from 1999 to 2009 at faculty positions at good public universities. Concerns include a long time-to-degree and a need to strengthen patterns of faculty supervision of graduate students.
Endocrinology-Reproductive Physiology, MS/PhD	Continued	The ten-year review of the ERP program recognized that the quality of graduate students entering and graduating from the program is high, ERP is a campus leader in minority student recruitment, and a “responsible conduct of research” requirement was added in a recent curriculum review. The program was encouraged to consider strategies to reduce time to degree, including closer monitoring of yearly student committee meetings.
Medical Microbiology and Immunology, MS	Continued	MS-MMI converted to a no-admissions program; available to students in the PhD Microbiology program who may choose to leave the program without completing the degree but have completed sufficient work to earn the MS.
Physical Therapy, Doctor of (DPT)	Continued	CAPTE accreditation review of the DPT was completed in 2012 and the program is in compliance with all criteria for accreditation. The next site visit will be in 2020. UW-Madison considers the requirement for the first program review at the five year mark that was due in 2012-13, to have been met by the successful accreditation review.
Public Health, Master of (MPH)	Continued	UW-Madison completed the first five-year review of the Master of Public Health program and reported the findings to UW System Administration in April 2013. This was the last of the five-year reviews that was started under the joint review process. The review committee that the MPH was exceeding the original goals of the program when it was established and has been an important addition to the UW-Madison program array.

UW-Madison Program Review Summary, 2012-13

Based on deans' office reports on program review as of August 2013. Programs are listed by school/college.

CHECKBOX: A check in the left "reviewed in past 10 years?" checkbox indicates a program review has been reported for the past 10 years.

Types of Program Review:

10-year reviews - Periodic reviews of each program initiated by school/college deans. By UW-Madison and Regent policy, all programs are to reviewed at least once in a 10 year period.

Joint Reviews - mandatory review of new academic programs by UW System and UW-Madison scheduled approximately five years following implementation of the program. System participation is not required after August 2012.

First Reviews - required reviews of new major/degree and new certificate programs scheduled approximately five years following implementation.

Accreditation - specialized accreditation of programs by external accrediting agencies, may serve as program reviews.

New Programs. New programs will appear as not reviewed in past 10 years; they are scheduled for a first review approximately five years after implementation.

Renamed or Reorganized Programs. For programs that have been renamed or reorganized, the review history of the originating programs is carried with the new programs where possible. For programs that have been renamed or reorganized in the past year those changes may not be reflected in this report.

This summary report was printed from the Program Review Database. Updates and changes to the Program Review Database or requests for more detailed information may be directed to Jocelyn Milner, director of Academic Planning and Analysis.

Sources for the Program Review Database: 1988 to present, "Program Review and Program Planning" in the UW-System yearly report to the Regents, originating from annual Dean's reports on program review. Earlier information from Academic Planning office records, including the "Schedule of Academic Program Review Activities 1973-1983".
