

Key Points

- Final graduation rates are tabulated six years or more after students enter the university as first-year students. For example, the 6-year graduation rate for students who entered in Fall 2006 will be tabulated for the first time in Fall 2012.
- The retention and graduation rates of the Chancellor's Scholars often exceed those of the whole cohort of first-year students.
- One-year retention rates for students participating in the PEOPLE and POSSE programs have exceeded those of the whole cohort of first-year students. The 6-year graduation rate for PEOPLE and POSSE students who entered in Fall 2002 will be tabulated for the first time later this fall.
